WHO Global Plan of Action on Workers' Health (GPA), 2008-2017

In 2007, the World Health Assembly endorsed the WHO Global Plan of Action on Workers' Health (GPA), 2008-2017,<sup>1</sup> which is a follow up of the WHO Global Strategy on Occupational Health for All endorsed by the World Health Assembly in 1996.

The main objectives of the GPA are to:

- Strengthen the governance and leadership function of national health systems to respond to the specific health needs of working populations -
- Establish basic levels of health protection at all workplaces to decrease inequalities in workers health between and within countries and strengthen the promotion of health - at work.
- Ensure access of all workers to preventive health services and link occupational health to primary health care. -
- Improve the knowledge base for action on protecting and promoting the health of workers and establish linkages between health and work. -
- Stimulate incorporation of actions on workers health into other policies, such as sustainable development, poverty reduction, trade liberalization, environmental protection - and employment.
