

Moaayd is the driver of a mobile clinic for the Palestine Red Crescent Society (PRCS), working with communities in the Jordan Valley, in the West Bank. He has been part of the clinic team for ten years.

"We should be providing health services at least three times a week, but we cover communities in three districts of the Jordan Valley and there is only so much we can do," says

Moaayd.

"To reach all communities, the mobile clinic needs to serve two or three communities at a time. Here in Khirbet Al Meiteh, some people need to walk half an hour from nearby communities to reach us," Moaayd comments.

4/5

"The mobile clinic covers part of the needs for our community in Wadi Al Maleh," says Mahdi, a member of the community coun

"Lifed connected to the neonle-here, and Lunderstand their suffering beganse Llive their experience teo. When the communitari of white melitiods a days the restriction of the communitari of white melitiods and the restriction of the communitari of the communit