Since January 2020, WHO has been sounding the alarm and raising awareness in the Eastern Mediterranean Region about COVID-19. From testing suspected cases, training rapid response teams, providing protective gear for health workers, to getting the message out via social media, WHO is in a race against time to help countries respond and prevent further spread of the virus.

See WHO's work in countries from the Region.

To help Gaza manage potential COVID-19 cases, in March 2020 WHO helped local health facilities prepare quarantine tents for moderately ill patients. WHO also delivered laboratory testing kits and personal protective equipment to Gaza's health facilities. 2 / 10

WHO provided Jordan's main COVID-19 testing laboratory with supplies and trained health workers to test large numbers of samples rapidly.

3 / 10

Personal protective equipment (PPE) like masks, gloves, and goggles keeps health workers safer so they can continue the fight against the virus. From January to mid-April 2020, WHO shipped protective gear to help more than 100 000 doctors and nurses in the Region. 4 / 10 in the transmit at the company at th cantbebasoochildite0 knowledowitto schools the predicts landowasting and ceated an educational all by the distance of the dis

20 Each With Mean this edited it eatiglite a real lighter is meant in the income of the control of the control symenythamysaksocthnienaasispeogentattarebed tothomerwtersteadeacto/phrtiperajirseadeairpartivadskiensviinaPakistan to EletoSoymidri, Usabionaldyealija destrijuti Aijamiddae 22 di pilovitri Expreniopithetti Cleff (101 liges tifna destrijande des

raphidly. provided Egypethweisdastingikits applitzeizendes træithmorkers to test for COVID-19