

WHO EMRO is pleased to announce the launch of the new WHO EMRO Communicable Diseases (CD) website. The new website provides a comprehensive overview of the current situation of communicable diseases in the Eastern Mediterranean Region, including the latest data, news, and information. The website is designed to be user-friendly and accessible to all, and it will be updated regularly to ensure that you have the most up-to-date information available. We encourage you to visit the website frequently to stay informed about the latest developments in the field of communicable diseases in the region.

The new WHO EMRO CD website is a valuable resource for all those interested in communicable diseases in the Eastern Mediterranean Region. It provides a central hub for information on a wide range of communicable diseases, including infectious diseases, zoonoses, and antimicrobial resistance. The website also features a range of resources, including fact sheets, press releases, and expert advice. We hope that the new website will help to raise awareness of the importance of communicable diseases and to promote the prevention and control of these diseases in the region.

WHO EMRO is committed to providing high-quality, evidence-based information on communicable diseases in the Eastern Mediterranean Region. We believe that the new WHO EMRO CD website is a key step in achieving this goal. We will continue to work closely with our partners and stakeholders to ensure that the website remains a valuable resource for all those interested in communicable diseases in the region. We look forward to your feedback and to continuing our work together to improve the health of the people of the Eastern Mediterranean Region.
