The trend of incidents of attacks on healthcare that resumed in April continued to the end of May into June, July 2020 and first week of August 2020. The primary drivers recorded over this period remain conflict involving both government and anti-government forces and abductions by unknown people. These attacks and the government instituted movement restrictions to control the spread of COVID-19 in the different districts continue to raise the number of people unable to access to health care services.
