

Provision of this mobile clinic was made possible through the support of the European Union Civil Protection and Humanitarian Aid (ECHO) 5 March 2018, Libya – The World Health Organization (WHO) country office in Libya delivered one mobile clinic to Sabha in Libya to meet the health needs of thousands of the underserved population in southern parts of the country.

This urgently needed clinic will be immediately deployed to help address the health needs of populations residing in areas with limited access to health care services – in urban and outreach areas.

Provision of this clinic was made possible through the support of the European Union Civil Protection and Humanitarian Aid (ECHO), and is the first of its kind to be brought to Libya to accelerate response efforts.

"We are very pleased about the arrival of this new mobile clinic which will provide round-the-clock health services for vulnerable populations in Libya," said Dr Jaffar Hussein, WHO Representative for Libya.
